

Data Access Portal User Guide

CSIRO's New Data Access Portal User Interface

The user interface of the Data Access Portal was developed by CSIRO's Information Management and Technology, Research Application Development and Research Data Service teams.

In October 2018, a new user interface was developed and made available for feedback. A hard release is planned for December 2018 and it will be the default.

What features are in the New User Interface

To view the existing user interface and help see <https://data.csiro.au>

The Data Access Portal allows users to:

Discover

Search for data using simple text searches, browse functions, map search, and for a specific area of research.

Share

Allows CSIRO teams to share data with collaborating organisations as well as with the wider community using functionality to set access and licensing conditions for each collection.